Re : For Customers Doing Business in California

Dear Sir or Madam,

The regulations for Article 6: Clear and Reasonable Warnings under Proposition 65 have been amended by California's Office of Environmental Health Hazard Assessment (OEHHA). The amended California Proposition 65 ("Prop 65") regulations took effect on August 30, 2018, including changes to the text and format of the "safe harbor" warning label, as well as warning requirements that apply to internet and catalog purchases. Manufacturers, distributors and retailers of products that will be used in California workplaces have obligations under Prop 65 to ensure that workers in California facilities receive a clear and reasonable warning before they are exposed to a Prop 65-listed chemical.

Prop 65 may impose additional warning requirement to those required by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) and Hazard Communications Standard (HCS). Even if a warning is not required under OSHA or HCS, a Prop 65 warning may be still required if the product contains a Prop 65-listed chemical and is used in a California facility. Section 25606(b) provides business the option to use safe harbor warning methods in an occupational setting.

Although you are ultimately responsible for your compliance and should consult your own legal counsel to determine your next steps. Balluff is providing you with this notice that you may have obligations under Prop 65 as a manufacturer, distributor or retailer to California consumers.

The current version of the candidate list can be found on the OEHHA website at:
<https://oehha.ca.gov/proposition-65/proposition-65-list>

Balluff products are designed for and intended to be used in industrial applications and equipment. It cannot be excluded that substances mentioned in the CP65 list are included in the products.
